Hong Yung has successfully obtained the right to operate the Cafe at the Hong Kong Museum of Coastal Defence, which is under the Leisure and Cultural Services Department. The contract started from November 2013 and would last for three years. The Cafe was set up with a subsidy of HK $1,087,528, funded by the "Enhancing Employment of People with Disabilities through Small Enterprise Project" supported by the Social Welfare Department. It is estimated that eight persons with disabilities can be hired at the same time. The Cafe is decorated in a marine style and sells mainly quality Hong Kong and Western food, and Madam Hong's homemade cookies, etc. To match the theme of the Museum, the Cafe also provides marine-themed set meals. The team, which comprises of a professional chef and a group of staff with disabilities, not only provides the customers with quality service and great food, but also promotes the employment of persons with disabilities. This method kills two birds with one stone as it creates a win-win situation on society and is exceptionally meaningful.
